Clauses of Reason and Result

1 · NOTICE

- Many families choose homeschooling because it lets children learn at their own pace.
- Since the exam covers so much material, students often revise for weeks beforehand.
- The lecture was so boring that half the class stopped taking notes.
- The school introduced such a flexible timetable that attendance improved almost overnight.

In which sentences does the underlined word introduce a REASON (why something happens), and in which introduces a RESULT (what happens because of it)?

2 · DISCOVER — A · COMPLETE THE RULE

Complete the rule with the words in the box.

a reason a result so/such...that because/since/as/due to

- _____ are used to introduce _____.
- _____ structures are used to introduce _____.

B Build sentences

Use the cues to build true sentences about education.

e.g. she chose / online learning because / it fit her work schedule

She chose online learning because it fit her work schedule.

- many students prefer / group projects since / they learn from each other

- the school changed the timetable due to / low attendance on Fridays

- the test was / so difficult that / almost nobody finished it

4. it was / such a useful workshop that / the school repeated it twice

5. ? / you choose this school as / it offers more electives

C Your turn

Write four sentences explaining reasons and results connected to your own education — why you chose something, or what a result of your effort was.

I chose... because...

Since..., I decided to...

The class was so... that...

It was such a... that...

RULE

Reason connectors (because, since, as, due to) explain WHY something happens. 'So + adjective/adverb + that' and 'such + (a/an) + adjective + noun + that' structures describe the RESULT of something. 'Due to' is followed by a noun/noun phrase (due to low attendance), while the others are followed by a clause.

TR Sebep bildiren bağlaçlar (because, since, as, due to) bir olayın NEDENİNİ açıklar. 'So + sıfat/zarf + that' ve 'such + (a/an) + sıfat + isim + that' yapıları ise bir olayın SONUCUNU bildirir. 'Due to' isim/isim öbeğiyle kullanılır (due to low attendance), diğerleri bir cümle alır.

When?

We use because/since/as/due to to explain the reason behind an educational choice or outcome; we use so...that/such...that to show how intense something was and what result it led to.

TR Bir eğitim tercihinin ya da başarının nedenini açıklarken because/since/as/due to; bir durumun ne kadar yoğun olduğunu ve bunun ne gibi bir sonuca yol açtığını anlatırken so...that/such...that kullanırız.

X WRONG	✓ RIGHT	WHY?
She chose this school due to it has smaller classes.	She chose this school due to its smaller classes. / She chose this school because it has smaller classes. - She's avoiding eye contact, so she might be nervous about the interview.
- He must be confident — look at that relaxed posture and steady eye contact.
- They can't be telling the truth; their facial expressions don't match their words at all.

Which sentence states a general truth about body language, and which sentences make a GUESS about someone's feelings based on evidence?

2 · DISCOVER — A · COMPLETE THE RULE

Complete the rule with the words in the box.

a general truth a strong positive guess a weak/possible guess a strong negative guess (impossible)

- The Present Simple is used to state _____ about what body language usually means.
- 'Might/could be' expresses _____.
- 'Must be' expresses _____ based on strong evidence.
- 'Can't be' expresses _____ — the evidence shows it's very unlikely.

B Build sentences

Use the cues to build true sentences interpreting body language.

e.g. crossed arms often / signal discomfort

Crossed arms often signal discomfort.

1. he avoid / eye contact he / might be / shy
2. she smile / and / lean forward she / must be / interested
3. his voice / shake he can't be / as calm as he claims
4. a firm handshake usually / suggest confidence
5. ? / that gesture mean agreement / or / confusion

C Your turn

Describe a person's body language in a situation you imagine (an interview, a presentation, a first date) and write four sentences interpreting what it might mean.

Her posture suggests... He might be... because... That must mean... They can't be... since...

RULE

Use the Present Simple to state the general meaning of body language (Crossed arms often signal discomfort). Use modal verbs to guess how someone feels based on evidence: 'might/could be' (weak possibility), 'must be' (strong positive guess), 'can't be' (strong negative guess/impossible).

TR Beden dilinin genel anlamını açıklarken Present Simple kullanılır (Crossed arms often signal discomfort). Birinin ne hissettiğini KANITA dayanarak tahmin ederken modal fiiller kullanılır: 'might/could be' (zayıf ihtimal), 'must be' (güçlü olumlu tahmin), 'can't be' (güçlü olumsuz tahmin/imkânsız).

When?

We use the Present Simple to state a general rule about body language, and modal verbs of deduction to guess how a specific person is feeling right now, based on evidence.

TR Beden dilinin genel kuralını anlatırken Present Simple; belirli bir kişinin o an ne hissettiğini kanıta dayanarak tahmin ederken modal fiilleri kullanırız.

POSITIVE	NEGATIVE	QUESTION	SHORT ANSWERS

What does a raised eyebrow usually mean? Could that gesture mean something different in another culture?	It usually means surprise or doubt. Yes, it could. / No, it can't.

X WRONG	✓ RIGHT	WHY?
She must being nervous because she's biting her nails.	She must be nervous because she's biting her nails.	After a modal verb, use the base form of the verb: must be, not must being. TR Modal fiilden sonra fiilin yalın (base) hâli kullanılır: must be, not must being.
He can't be interested; he's smiling and leaning forward.	He can't be uninterested — he's smiling and leaning forward. / He must be interested, since he's smiling and leaning forward.	When the evidence points to a positive feeling, use 'must be' rather than 'can't be'. TR Kanıt olumlu bir duyguyu işaret ediyorsa, 'can't be' yerine 'must be' kullanılmalıdır.
Crossed arms is signalling discomfort in general.	Crossed arms generally signal discomfort.	A general truth is expressed with the Present Simple, not the Present Progressive. TR Genel bir gerçek anlatılırken Present Progressive değil Present Simple kullanılır.

1 Before you read

Make predictions before you read.

1. Look at the title. What do you think 'one size doesn't fit all' means about education?
2. Which do you think you'd prefer as a student: a strict, exam-focused school or a flexible, student-centred one? Why?

One Size Doesn't Fit All

- 1 Walk into a classroom in one country and you might see rows of silent students copying notes from a board. Walk into a classroom elsewhere, and you might find children sitting in a circle, designing their own project for the week. Neither approach is automatically wrong; each simply grew out of different beliefs about how learning works best.
- 2 Traditional, exam-focused systems often exist because they can be measured easily and applied to large numbers of students at once. Since a single national test can be marked quickly and compared fairly, many governments rely on it, even though critics argue it encourages rote learning rather than real understanding. Such systems can be so exam-driven that students learn to answer questions without ever asking their own.
- 3 Student-centred methods, on the other hand, grew popular due to research suggesting that motivation and self-discipline improve when learners have real choices. A student who picks their own topic is often so engaged that they keep researching long after the lesson ends. The challenge is that this approach demands well-trained teachers and smaller classes — resources not every school can afford.

1. What is the main idea of the text?
 - a Traditional education is always better than student-centred education.
 - b Different education systems grew out of different beliefs and goals, each with strengths and challenges.
 - c Exams should be removed from every education system.
2. Traditional, exam-focused systems are popular partly because they can be _____ easily.
3. According to the text, why do student-centred methods appeal to some educators?
 - a They are cheaper to run than traditional schools.
 - b Research suggests motivation and self-discipline improve when learners have real choices.
 - c They remove the need for teachers altogether.
4. According to the text, student-centred methods need no special resources. ☐ Correct ☐ Incorrect
5. Critics argue that heavily exam-driven systems encourage _____ learning rather than real understanding.

1. Do you think your own school leans more toward the traditional or the student-centred approach?

2. Can you think of a downside of student-centred learning that the text doesn't mention?

1 Before you read*Make predictions before you read.*

1. What do you think the title 'The Conversation Nobody Speaks' refers to?

2. Can you think of a gesture that means different things in different cultures?

The Conversation Nobody Speaks

- 1 Long before a person finishes a sentence, their body has usually already said something. Researchers who study communication estimate that a large share of meaning in face-to-face conversation comes not from words, but from posture, gesture and facial expression. This silent layer of communication can support what someone says — or quietly contradict it.

- 2 Some signals appear to be almost universal. A genuine smile, for example, tends to involve the muscles around the eyes as well as the mouth, which is why a forced smile can look slightly 'off' even to a stranger. Other signals, however, change enormously between cultures. Direct eye contact might suggest confidence and honesty in one country, while in another it can be read as rude or challenging.
- 3 This is exactly why body language must be interpreted carefully, never in isolation. A single crossed-arm gesture doesn't automatically mean someone is angry or closed off; they might simply be cold, or comfortable standing that way. Skilled observers look for clusters of signals and consider the context before drawing any conclusion about what a person really means.

2. A genuine smile usually involves the muscles around the eyes as well as the _____.
3. According to the text, how does eye contact differ across cultures?
 - a It always means the same thing everywhere.
 - b It can suggest confidence in one culture and rudeness in another.
 - c It is never used outside Western countries.
4. According to the text, a single gesture is always enough to know exactly how someone feels.
