Modals of Probability, Speculation and Deduction

1 · NOTICE

- This dish must be a local speciality — everyone in the market is buying it.
- The festival might attract thousands of visitors this year, but nothing is certain yet.
- She can't be a professional chef — she just burnt the rice!
- The film could become a global hit if it does well at international festivals.

Which modal shows the speaker is almost certain something is true? Which shows the speaker is almost certain something is NOT true? Which two show the speaker is only guessing?

2 · DISCOVER — A · COMPLETE THE RULE

Complete the rule with the words in the box.

can't must might / could / may

1. For a strong positive conclusion based on evidence, we use _____ + base verb.
2. For a strong negative conclusion (we are almost sure something is impossible), we use _____ + base verb.
3. For a guess when we are not sure, we use _____ + base verb.

B Build sentences

Use the cues to build a sentence of deduction or speculation.

e.g. the queue is so long must be a popular street food stall

The queue is so long — it must be a popular street food stall.

1. she speak five languages must

2. this actor not / famous can't

3. the band might release a new album this year
4. that restaurant could be expensive
5. ? / the tournament must be difficult to organise

C Your turn

Write four sentences of your own using must, can't, might/could to make deductions or guesses about a food, film, sport or musical event you know about.

It must... It can't... It might... It could...

RULE

We use 'must' (positive) and 'can't' (negative) for a strong logical conclusion based on evidence. We use 'might', 'may' or 'could' for a guess when we are not sure. These modals are followed by the base form of the verb.

TR Bir kanıta dayanarak güçlü bir sonuca varırken 'must' (olumlu) ve 'can't' (olumsuz) kullanılır. Emin olmadığımız bir tahmin yaparken 'might', 'may' ya da 'could' kullanılır. Bu modallerden sonra fiilin yalın hâli gelir.

When?

We use these modals when drawing a conclusion from evidence, or when speculating without being sure — for example, guessing where a dish comes from or why a film became popular.

TR Bir olayla ilgili elimizdeki kanıtlara dayanarak sonuç çıkarırken ya da emin olmadan tahminde bulunurken bu yapıları kullanırız — örneğin bir yemeğin nereden geldiğini ya da bir filmin neden popüler olduğunu tahmin ederken.

POSITIVE	NEGATIVE	QUESTION	SHORT ANSWERS
This must be a traditional recipe. The concert might sell out quickly.	That can't be true — the restaurant only opened yesterday. It might not be ready by the festival.	Could this dish be vegetarian?	It must be. / It can't be. It might. / It might not.

X WRONG	✓ RIGHT	WHY?
She must to be a fan of that band.	She must be a fan of that band.	Modal verbs are followed by the base verb, without 'to'. TR Modal fiillerden sonra 'to' kullanılmaz.
It mustn't be true.	It can't be true.	For a strong negative conclusion use 'can't', not 'mustn't' — 'mustn't' means prohibition, not deduction. TR Güçlü olumsuz sonuç için 'mustn't' değil 'can't' kullanılır; 'mustn't' yasak anlamı taşır.

1 Choose the correct option.

4 × 1 pts

- Look at the huge queue outside — that food truck _____ be really popular.
(a) must (b) can't (c) mightn't
- She's only twelve — she _____ be the director of the film festival.
(a) must (b) can't (c) might
- The band _____ perform a surprise song tonight — nobody is sure.
(a) must (b) can't (c) might
- This dish is very spicy — it _____ contain chilli.
(a) must (b) mustn't (c) might not

2 Complete with must, can't or might.

3 × 1 pts

- He speaks perfect Korean, so he _____ have lived in Korea for a while.
- That restaurant only opened last week, so the recipe _____ be a hundred years old.
- I'm not sure who wrote the soundtrack — it _____ be the same composer as the last film.

3 Judge the sentence.

2 × 1 pts

- She mustn't be the singer — her voice sounds completely different. ☐ Correct ☐ Incorrect
- This street food stall must be famous — it's in every travel guide. ☐ Correct ☐ Incorrect

4 Complete with must, can't or might.

2 × 1 pts

Challenge

- A: The tickets sold out in ten minutes — the concert _____ be really popular.
- B: True, but the reviews are mixed, so it _____ actually be that good live.

5 Reorder the sentence.

1 × 1 pts

Challenge

1. chef that must be a professional .

Modals of Obligation and Necessity: must, have to, need, had to

1 · NOTICE

- Visitors must remove their shoes before entering the temple.
- You have to book a table in advance — the restaurant is always full.
- We need to try the local street food while we're here — everyone recommends it.
- Last year, festival organisers had to cancel the concert because of bad weather.

Which modal expresses the speaker's own personal rule, and which expresses an outside rule or fact?
What form do we use for a past obligation?

2 · DISCOVER — A · COMPLETE THE RULE

Complete the rule with the words in the box.

an outside rule had to the speaker's own feeling need to

1. 'Must' often expresses _____ of obligation (a personal decision).
2. 'Have to' usually expresses _____ (a law, rule, or fact outside the speaker).
3. ' _____ ' is another common way to express necessity, similar to 'have to'.
4. For a past obligation, we use ' _____ ' (there is no past form of 'must' for obligation).

B Build sentences

Complete the sentence with must, have to, need to or had to.

e.g. visitors must buy a ticket before the tour

Visitors must buy a ticket before the tour.

1. students have to wear formal clothes for the ceremony (school rule)

2. we need to practise our presentation about Mexican cuisine

3. last month / the festival had to move indoors because of the rain

4. I must remember to try the local delicacy (personal decision)

5. ? / you have to book tickets online for the tournament

C Your turn

Write three sentences about obligations connected to travelling to a new country: one with must, one with have to, and one about a past obligation with had to.

Before you travel, you must...

In most countries, you have to...

Last time, I had to...

RULE

'Must' often expresses the speaker's own feeling of obligation, while 'have to' expresses an obligation from outside (a rule, law or fact). 'Need to' is close in meaning to 'have to'. For the past, we use 'had to' — there is no past form of 'must' for obligation.

TR 'Must', konuşmacının kendi hissettiği bir zorunluluğu; 'have to' ise dışarıdan (kural, kanun, gerçek) gelen bir zorunluluğu anlatır. 'Need to' anlam olarak 'have to'ya yakındır. Geçmiş zamanda hem 'must' hem 'have to' yerine 'had to' kullanılır.

When?

We use these modals to talk about rules, requirements and obligations — for example, rules you must follow when visiting a country, or things you need to do to prepare for an event.

TR Bir kurala, gereksinime ya da yükümlülüğe atıfta bulunurken — örneğin bir ülkeyi ziyaret ederken uyulması gereken kurallar ya da bir etkinlik için yapılması gerekenler hakkında konuşurken kullanırız.

POSITIVE	NEGATIVE	QUESTION	SHORT ANSWERS
You must try the local street food.	You don't have to bring a gift, but it's polite.	Do we have to wear traditional clothes?	Yes, you do. / No, you don't.
We have to arrive early for the ceremony.	We didn't have to queue for long.	Did you have to get a visa?	Yes, I did. / No, I didn't.

X WRONG	✓ RIGHT	WHY?
Yesterday we must book a table.	Yesterday we had to book a table.	'Must' has no past form for obligation — use 'had to' for the past. TR Geçmişte zorunluluk için 'must' değil 'had to' kullanılır.
She has to to attend the festival.	She has to attend the festival.	'Have to' already includes 'to' — never add a second 'to' before the main verb. TR 'Have to' bir yardımcı fiil gibi davranır, ikinci fiilden önce 'to' tekrar edilmez.

6 Choose the correct option.

3 × 1 pts

- In many temples, visitors _____ cover their shoulders — it's a strict rule.
 (a) must (b) might (c) should
- Last year, the organisers _____ postpone the tournament because of the storm.
 (a) must (b) had to (c) have to
- We _____ book seats online — the cinema doesn't sell tickets at the door anymore.
 (a) have to (b) must (personal feeling) (c) need (without to)

7 Complete with the correct form.

3 × 1 pts

- I really _____ (must) remember to send them the recipe before I forget.
- _____ you _____ (have to) show your passport at the border?

Challenge

- A: _____ we _____ (have to) bring our own food to the potluck?
- B: No, but last time everyone _____ (had to) sign up in advance.

Modals of Lack of Obligation, Prohibition and Permission1 · NOTICE

- You don't have to tip in this country — it isn't expected.
- Visitors mustn't touch the artefacts in the museum.
- You can't bring outside food into the stadium during the tournament.
- Guests are allowed to take photos, but flash photography isn't permitted.

Which phrase means 'it isn't necessary'? Which two mean 'it is forbidden'? Which one means 'it is permitted'?

2 · DISCOVER — A · COMPLETE THE RULE

Complete the rule with the words in the box.

not necessary

forbidden

permission

1. 'Don't have to' / 'don't need to' mean something is _____.
2. 'Mustn't' and 'can't' mean something is _____.
3. 'Can' / 'be allowed to' give _____ to do something.

B Build sentences

Complete each sentence with don't have to, mustn't, can't, or are allowed to.

2. fans aren't allowed to bring glass bottles into the stadium
3. students are allowed to choose their own country to research
4. you can't take photos backstage without permission
5. ? / we have to buy tickets in advance for the film festival

C Your turn

Write three rules for visitors to an event or place you know well: one with don't have to, one with mustn't, and one with are allowed to.

You don't have to...

You mustn't...

You are allowed to...

RULE

'Don't have to' / 'don't need to' show that something is NOT necessary (it's optional). 'Mustn't' and 'can't' show that something is forbidden. 'Can' and 'be allowed to' show that something is permitted.

TR 'Don't have to' / 'don't need to' bir şeyin zorunlu OLMADIĞINI belirtir. 'Mustn't' ve 'can't' bir şeyin yasak olduğunu belirtir. 'Can' ve 'be allowed to' ise izin verildiğini anlatır.

When?

We use these forms to explain the rules of a place or event — what isn't necessary, what is forbidden, and what is permitted.

TR Bir yerin ya da etkinliğin kurallarını açıklarken — nelerin zorunlu olmadığını, nelerin yasak olduğunu ve nelere izin verildiğini anlatırken bu yapıları kullanırız.

POSITIVE	NEGATIVE	QUESTION	SHORT ANSWERS
You are allowed to bring your own snacks. You can take photos here.	You don't have to buy a ticket in advance. You mustn't touch the exhibits.	Are we allowed to film the performance?	Yes, you are. / No, you aren't. Yes, you can. / No, you can't.
X WRONG	✓ RIGHT	WHY?
You mustn't buy a ticket in advance — it's optional.	You don't have to buy a ticket in advance — it's optional.	'Mustn't' means forbidden — for 'not necessary', use 'don't have to' instead. TR 'Mustn't' yasak demektir, 'zorunlu değil' demek için 'don't have to' kullanılmalı.
Visitors don't have to touch the paintings.	Visitors mustn't touch the paintings.	To say something is forbidden, use 'mustn't', not 'don't have to'. TR Bir şeyin yasak olduğunu belirtmek için 'don't have to' değil 'mustn't' kullanılır.

10 Choose the correct option.

3 × 1 pts

- You _____ wear a suit to the beach festival — casual clothes are fine.
(a) mustn't (b) don't have to (c) can't
- Fans _____ bring fireworks into the stadium — it's strictly forbidden.
(a) don't have to (b) mustn't (c) are allowed to
- Students _____ choose any country they like for the cultural portfolio project.
(a) are allowed to (b) mustn't (c) don't need

11 Complete with don't have to, mustn't or can.

3 × 1 pts

- You _____ bring your passport for a local festival, but you do need it for the international one.
- Visitors _____ touch the ancient instruments in the museum.
- You _____ film the concert on your phone — it's allowed as long as you don't use flash.

12 Judge the sentence.

1. You mustn't bring your own snacks — it's completely optional. ☐ Correct ☐ Incorrect
2. Fans aren't allowed to bring glass bottles into the stadium. ☐ Correct ☐ Incorrect

13 Complete with don't have to, mustn't, can or are allowed to.

1 × 1 pts

Challenge

1. At this festival, you _____ buy a ticket weeks in advance, but you _____ bring outside food, and children under six _____ enter free.

Modals of Advice (should, ought to, had better, could) + Be able to1 · NOTICE

- You should try the local specialities when you travel — they're part of the culture.
- We had better book our tournament tickets today, or they'll sell out.
- You ought to learn a few phrases of the language before your trip.
- After years of practice, she is able to cook dishes from over twenty countries.

Which modals give friendly advice? Which one gives a warning about something urgent? Which structure talks about ability, not advice?

2 · DISCOVER — A · COMPLETE THE RULE

Complete the rule with the words in the box.

a strong warning friendly advice ability, not advice

1. 'Should' and 'ought to' give _____ or a recommendation.
2. 'Had better' gives _____ — there could be a bad result if the advice isn't followed.
3. 'Be able to' expresses _____.

B Build sentences

Complete each sentence with should, ought to, had better or be able to (in the correct form).

e.g. you should try the street food market on Friday nights

You should try the street food market on Friday nights.

1. we had better leave now or we'll miss the opening ceremony

2. tourists ought to respect local dining customs

3. by next year / he be able to speak three languages

4. she not / be able to attend the festival last year (illness)

5. ? / you should book tickets for the film early

C Your turn

Write three pieces of advice for someone visiting a cultural festival for the first time, using should, ought to and had better.

You should...

You ought to...

You'd better...

RULE

'Should' and 'ought to' give friendly advice or a recommendation (they are close in meaning, but 'should' is more common in speech). 'Had better' gives a stronger, more urgent warning, implying a bad result if not followed. 'Be able to' expresses ability (it can be used in the present, future and past), not advice.

TR 'Should' ve 'ought to' nazik tavsiye vermek için kullanılır (anlamları neredeyse aynıdır, ama 'should' konuşma dilinde daha yaygındır). 'Had better' kötü bir sonuç olabileceğini ima eden daha güçlü/acil bir uyarı verir. 'Be able to', yetenek anlatır (present, future ve past zamanlarda çekimlenebilir), tavsiye değildir.

When?

We use 'should/ought to' to give advice, 'had better' for an urgent warning, and 'be able to' to describe ability — for example, when recommending something to a visitor, or talking about someone's skills.

TR Birine tavsiye verirken 'should/ought to', acil bir uyarı yaparken 'had better', bir yeteneği anlatırken 'be able to' kullanırsınız — örneğin bir festivale gidecek birine öneride bulunurken ya da birinin dil/beceri yeteneğinden bahsederken.

POSITIVE	NEGATIVE	QUESTION	SHORT ANSWERS
You should try the local delicacy.	You shouldn't miss the opening ceremony.	Should we book in advance?	Yes, you should. / No, you shouldn't.
She is able to cook dishes from many countries.	He wasn't able to get tickets last year.	Will you be able to join us at the festival?	Yes, I will. / No, I won't.

X WRONG	✓ RIGHT	WHY?
You should to try the local food.	You should try the local food.	Modal verbs like 'should' are followed by the base verb, without 'to'. TR Modal fiillerden sonra 'to' kullanılmaz.
She can be able to speak four languages.	She is able to speak four languages. / She can speak four languages.	Don't combine 'can' and 'be able to' — use only one of them. TR 'Can' ve 'be able to' birlikte kullanılmaz; sadece biri tercih edilir.

14 Choose the correct option.

Make predictions before you read.

1. Look at the title. What do you think the text will compare?
2. Name one dish you have tried that mixes ingredients or styles from two different countries.

The World on One Plate

- 1 Walk through a night market in Bangkok, a food hall in Istanbul, or a food truck festival in Los Angeles, and you will notice something similar: dishes from completely different culinary traditions sitting side by side. A steaming bowl of Vietnamese pho might be served next to Mexican tacos, while a stall selling Turkish gözleme stands opposite one offering Korean fried chicken. This mixing of cuisines is not an accident — it is one of the clearest signs of globalisation in everyday life.
- 2 For centuries, food travelled slowly, carried by traders, sailors and migrants along routes such as the Silk Road. Spices, rice and tea moved from one culture to another over months or years. Today, the same process happens almost instantly. A new fusion restaurant in Seoul can go viral on social media, and within days, food lovers in São Paulo or Cairo are trying to recreate the recipe at home. Globalisation hasn't only sped up the exchange of food; it has completely reshaped what "authentic" cuisine even means.
- 3 Not everyone welcomes this change. Some chefs and food historians worry that fusion cuisine and global franchises could slowly replace local culinary heritage, especially among younger generations who grow up eating international fast food rather than traditional family recipes. Others argue the opposite: that global attention actually helps preserve dying culinary traditions, because chefs who blend old recipes with new ideas often bring worldwide interest — and funding — back to the original dish.
- 4 Whatever the outcome, one thing seems certain. As long as people keep travelling, migrating and sharing photos of their meals online, the world's cuisines will keep influencing each other — and our plates will continue to tell the story of a more connected planet.

Circle the correct option.

1. What is the main idea of the text?
 - a Fusion food is always better than traditional food.
 - b Globalisation is changing how cuisines mix and how we understand "authentic" food.
 - c Food never changes from one generation to the next.
2. In the past, food travelled slowly along routes such as the _____.
3. According to the text, some chefs and food historians worry that:
 - a fusion cuisine and global franchises could replace local culinary heritage
 - b traditional recipes are becoming too expensive
 - c food no longer travels between countries
4. Everyone in the text agrees that globalisation is bad for traditional food. ☐ Correct ☐ Incorrect
5. A new fusion restaurant can go viral on social media, and within days, people elsewhere try to _____ the recipe at home.

2. Write one sentence describing a fusion dish you would like to try.

1 Before you read*Make predictions before you read.*

1. What sport, film or type of music from another country do you enjoy?

2. Do you think it's easier to access international entertainment now than it was for your parents' generation?

When Screens and Stadiums Cross Borders

- 1 Twenty years ago, a teenager in a small town might have grown up watching only local television and listening to music sung in their own language. Today, that same teenager can stream a Korean drama with subtitles, follow a Spanish football league on their phone, and add a Nigerian afrobeats song to their playlist — all before breakfast. Entertainment, like food, has become genuinely global.

- 2 Sport offers one of the clearest examples. International tournaments such as the World Cup or the Olympics attract fan bases that stretch across every continent, uniting people who may never have met and who support their teams for reasons connected to family, history or simple love of the game. A goal scored in one stadium can be celebrated by millions of people thousands of kilometres away within seconds, thanks to live streaming and social media.
- 3 Film and music tell a similar story. A blockbuster produced in one country can top the box office worldwide, and a song released with no marketing budget can become a global phenomenon purely because listeners share it online. Streaming platforms now recommend content from dozens of countries, meaning audiences are exposed to storytelling styles, humour and music that would have been almost impossible to access a generation ago.
- 4 Of course, this cultural exchange raises questions too. Does easy access to international blockbusters threaten smaller national film industries? Could the popularity of a handful of global superstars crowd out local musicians? For now, most researchers agree that globalisation in entertainment tends to add variety rather than erase it — but they also agree that supporting local artists remains important if that variety is going to survive.

Aim Use the words and structures of the theme in real communication tasks.

S1 Rules and Recommendations for Visitors

In pairs, imagine you are giving advice to an international visitor coming to your city or region. Talk about food customs, what visitors must/mustn't do, what they don't have to do, and what you'd recommend they try. Use at least three different modals from this theme (must, have to, mustn't, don't have to, should, had better, could, be able to).

S2 My Cultural Portfolio — A Mini-Presentation

Prepare a two-minute talk introducing one country's food, and its contribution to international sport, film or music. Include at least one deduction/speculation (must be, might be, could be) and one piece of advice for someone visiting that country.

W1 A Cultural Portfolio Page

Write a cultural portfolio page (150–180 words) about one country of your choice. Include its food traditions, one cultural event (sport, film or music), and a short reflection on how globalisation has influenced it.
