Relative Clauses — who/which/that/whose (defining) and where/when/why

We use defining relative clauses to give essential information that identifies exactly which person, thing, place, time or reason we are talking about, without which the sentence would not make full sense. We use who/that for people, which/that for things, whose to show possession, where for places, when for times, and why for reasons. Defining relative clauses are not separated by commas.

Belirten (defining) sıfat cümleciklerini, hakkında konuşulan kişi, şey, yer, zaman ya da sebebi tam olarak belirlemek için gereken, cümlelerin anlamı için gerekli bilgiyi vermek amacıyla kullanırız; bu bilgi olmadan cümle eksik kalır. İnsanlar için who/that, nesneler için which/that, sahiplik için whose, yerler için where, zamanlar için when, sebepler için why kullanılır. Belirten sıfat cümlecikleri virgülle ayrılmaz.

When? Use a defining relative clause whenever the listener needs the extra information to know exactly who or what you mean; if you removed the clause, the sentence would become unclear or too general.

Dinleyicinin tam olarak kimi ya da neyi kastettiğinizi anlaması için ek bilgiye ihtiyacı olduğunda belirten sıfat cümlecği kullanılır; bu cümlecik çıkarılırsa cümle belirsiz ya da çok genel hale gelir.

Positive

- The person who/that helps me is my friend.
- The place where we meet is a café.
- The reason why she left is unclear.

Negative

- The person who doesn't help me isn't a real friend.
- The place where we don't usually go is quiet.

Question

- Is he the friend who called you yesterday?
- Is this the café where you met your friend?

Short answers

- Yes, he's the one who called.
- Yes, that's the place where we met.

Common mistakes

- ~~This is the girl which is my best friend.~~ → This is the girl who is my best friend.
- ~~That's the café, where we always meet.~~ → That's the café where we always meet.
- ~~He is the boy who's bag is red.~~ → He is the boy whose bag is red.
- ~~I remember the day which we met.~~ → I remember the day when we met.

- ☐ a. The café, where we meet is nice.
- ☒ b. The café where we meet is nice. ✓
- ☐ c. The café, where we meet, is nice.
- ☐ d. The café who we meet is nice.

Defining relative clauses are not separated by commas.

11. Do you know the reason _____ she moved to another city? (why)

'Why' introduces a reason clause.

Defining vs. Non-defining Relative Clauses

A defining relative clause gives essential information without which the sentence loses its meaning, and it is not separated by commas. A non-defining relative clause adds extra, non-essential information about someone or something already identified (often a name or a unique place), and it is separated by commas. 'That' can replace who/which in defining clauses but not in non-defining clauses.

Belirten (defining) sıfat cümlecîği, çıkarıldığında cümle'nin anlamını kaybettiği temel bilgiyi verir ve virgülle ayrılmaz. Belirtmeyen (non-defining) sıfat cümlecîği ise zaten tanımlanmış bir kişi ya da şey (genellikle bir isim ya da tek bir yer) hakkında ek, gereksiz olmayan ama zorunlu da olmayan bilgi verir ve virgülle ayrılır. 'That', belirten cümleciklerde who/which yerine kullanılabilir ama belirtmeyen cümleciklerde kullanılmaz.

When? Choose non-defining when the person or place is already clearly identified (a name, 'my mother', a capital city) and you are only adding extra detail; choose defining when the clause is needed to say exactly who or what you mean.

Kişi ya da yer zaten açıkça belirlenmişse (bir isim, 'annem', bir başkent gibi) ve sadece ek bir bilgi ekleniyorsa belirtmeyen cümlecik; tam olarak kimi ya da neyi kastettiğinizi belirtmek gerekiyorsa belirten cümlecik seçilir.

Positive

- The boy who called me is my cousin. (defining)
- Emre, who called me, is my cousin. (non-defining)

Negative

- The boy who didn't call me is my cousin.
- Emre, who didn't call me, is my cousin.

Question

- Is the boy who called you your cousin?
- Is Emre, who called you, your cousin?

Short answers

- Yes, he is.
- Yes, he is.

Common mistakes

- ~~My mother who lives in Balıkesir called me.~~ → My mother, who lives in Balıkesir, called me.
- ~~The friend, that helped me, is very kind.~~ → The friend that helped me is very kind.
- ~~My best friend Deniz who I trust most.~~ → My best friend Deniz, whom I trust most, always helps me.

1. My father, who works at the hospital, is very supportive. — True / False (Correct)

- b. My sister, who lives in İzmir, is a doctor. ✓
- c. My sister, who lives in İzmir is a doctor.
- d. My sister who lives in İzmir is a doctor, is a doctor.

Non-defining clauses need commas on both sides.

3. The book _____ I'm reading now is about a group of childhood friends. (defining, can use 'that') (which / that)

Defining clause identifying which book.

4. Combine, making it non-defining: My teacher helped me a lot. My teacher's name is Ms. Kaya. (Ms. Kaya, my teacher,...) My teacher, Ms. Kaya, who helped me a lot, ... / Ms. Kaya, my teacher, who helped me a lot, is kind.

5. Put in order: is / my / cousin / Deniz / who / lives / in / Bursa

Deniz, who lives in Bursa, is my cousin.

6. 'That' can be used instead of 'who/which' in _____.

- a. non-defining clauses only
- b. defining clauses only ✓
- c. both types equally
- d. neither type

'That' is restricted to defining relative clauses.

(Ankara, which...) Ankara, which is the capital of Turkey, has many good universities.

8. The girl that is my cousin, lives in İstanbul. — True / False (Incorrect — The girl who is my cousin lives in İstanbul.)

9. My best friend, _____ I have known since childhood, always makes me laugh. (who / whom)

Non-defining clause about an already-identified person.

The Friend Who Never Gave Up on Me

Before you read

- Look at the title. What kind of friend do you think the writer is describing?
- Think of a friend who has supported you during a difficult time.

Everyone has a friend who they will never forget, and for me, that friend is Ceren. We met in the seventh grade, on the first day when our new class was formed, and we have been close ever since. Ceren is the kind of person who notices when something is wrong, even before you say a word.

Two years ago, I was going through a difficult period at school, which affected my grades and my confidence. Ceren, who could see that I was struggling, started walking home with me every day just to talk. She never told me what to do; instead, she asked questions that helped me understand my own feelings better.

The place where we had our longest conversations was a small park near our school, which has a bench under an old tree. That bench is where we solved most of our problems, from small arguments with classmates to bigger worries about the future. It became a kind of second home for us.

What I admire most about Ceren is her loyalty. She is a friend whose honesty I can always trust, even when the truth is uncomfortable. Last year, when I made a decision that most people disagreed with, Ceren was the only one who asked me to explain my reasons before judging me.

Now that we are in different classes, we don't see each other every day, but the bond we built has not weakened. Whenever I need someone to talk to, Ceren is still the first person I call. She taught me that a real friend is someone who stays, not just when things are easy, but especially when they are not.

1. When did the writer and Ceren first meet?

- a. In primary school
- b. On the first day of seventh grade ✓
- c. At a birthday party
- d. During a school trip

Paragraph 1 says they met on the first day the new class was formed.

2. Ceren told the writer exactly what to do to solve the problem. — True / False (Incorrect — Ceren asked questions instead of telling the writer what to do.)

3. The bench under the old tree is the place _____ they had their longest conversations. (where)

'Where' refers to a place, matching the grammar point of this theme.

4. What does the writer admire most about Ceren?

- a. Her sense of humour
- b. Her loyalty and honesty ✓
- c. Her intelligence
- d. Her generosity with money

Paragraph 4 focuses on Ceren's loyalty and honesty.

5. Rewrite as one sentence using a relative pronoun: The writer made a decision. Most people disagreed with the decision. (The writer made a decision...) The writer made a decision which most people disagreed with. / The writer made a decision that most people disagreed with.

6. According to the text, Ceren and the writer are now in the same class. — True / False (Incorrect — They are now in different classes.)

After you read

- Do you agree that a real friend is someone who stays during difficult times? Why or why not?
- Describe a place that is special to you and a friend, using 'where'.

Our Ten-Year Reunion

Before you read

- What do you think happens at a class reunion?
- Have you ever met a childhood friend again after a long time?

Last month, my old classmates and I organised a reunion, which took place exactly ten years after we finished middle school. The event, which was held in a restaurant near our old school, brought together almost thirty former students, some of whom I hadn't seen since graduation.

The person who worked hardest to organise everything was Burak, a classmate whose energy for planning events never seems to disappear. He created a group chat where everyone could share memories, photos and, eventually, their availability for the big day.

When the evening finally arrived, it was strange to see faces that I remembered as children now belonging to adults with jobs, families and completely different lives. The first person I recognised was Selin, whose laugh had not changed at all in ten years. We talked for almost an hour about the summer when our whole class went camping together.

One moment that made everyone emotional was when we watched an old video, which someone had saved from our final week of school. In the video, our teacher, who had since retired, gave a short speech about friendship that none of us had fully understood at the age of fourteen.

By the end of the night, we had exchanged numbers, made plans for a smaller gathering, and remembered why some of these friendships, despite the years when we drifted apart, still mattered. As Burak said in his closing toast, a good friend is someone who, no matter how much time passes, can still make you feel like you're fifteen again.

1. How long after graduation did the reunion take place?
 - a. Five years
 - b. Eight years
 - c. Ten years ✓
 - d. Fifteen years

The text states the reunion took place exactly ten years after graduation.

2. Burak created a group chat _____ everyone could share memories and photos. (where)

'Where' refers to a place (the chat as a space for sharing).

3. Selin's laugh had changed a lot in ten years. — True / False (Incorrect — Selin's laugh had not changed at all in ten years.)

4. What made everyone emotional during the reunion?

- a. A speech by Burak
- b. An old video from their final week of school ✓
- c. A photo slideshow
- d. A gift from the teacher

Paragraph 4 describes the old video as the emotional moment.

5. Combine: Our teacher gave a speech about friendship. Our teacher had since retired. (Our teacher, who...)
Our teacher, who had since retired, gave a speech about friendship.

6. According to Burak's toast, what makes someone a good friend?

- a. Living nearby
- b. Being able to make you feel young again despite time passing ✓
- c. Remembering everyone's name
- d. Organising events well

The closing line describes this idea directly.

After you read

- Would you enjoy attending a reunion with old classmates ten years from now? Why or why not?

5. What is Emir's role connected to the wedding?

- a. He is the groom
- b. He organised most of the wedding games ✓
- c. He took the photos
- d. He is Naz's brother

B states this directly about Emir.

Transcript (teacher use)

A Hey, is this the photo from your cousin's wedding? Who's the girl standing next to you?

B Oh, that's Naz. She's a friend whose family lives near mine in the summer.

A Sorry, could you clarify that? Do you mean she's a neighbour, or a family friend?

B In other words, our families have known each other for years because our summer houses are next to each other.

A Ah, that makes sense now. And who's the boy who's laughing in the background?

B That's Emir, the guy who organised most of the wedding games.

A Wait, I'm a bit confused. Is he your cousin's friend, or is he related to your family?

B Let me explain further — he's actually my cousin's university roommate, and they've been close ever since they met.
