S1 Pitch Your Own Film

Pairs · 10–15 dk

Invent your own film (any genre). Describe its plot, main character and genre to your partner using the Simple Present, as if you are pitching the idea to a film company.

My film is a [genre] about...

The main character discovers/finds/builds...

In the end, the hero...

Does that sound interesting?

1. Individually, plan a short film idea: genre, main character, and 3–4 plot events.
2. Take turns pitching your film idea to your partner using the Simple Present.
3. Your partner asks at least 2 questions about the plot.
4. Swap roles, then find a new partner and pitch again.
5. Vote as a class on the most original film idea.

S2 Predictions for the Future

Small groups · 15–20 dk

In small groups, discuss and agree on three predictions about technology or life in fifty years' time, then present and defend your predictions to the class.

I think ... will/won't happen because...

Do you agree that...?

I'm not sure I agree. I think...

By 2075, people will probably...

1. In groups of 3–4, brainstorm 5–6 possible predictions about the future.
2. Discuss each idea and choose the group's top three predictions.
3. Prepare one sentence with 'will/won't' for each prediction, with a reason.
4. Present your three predictions to another group or the whole class.
5. Listen to another group's predictions and say if you agree or disagree.

W1 Write a Film Review

60-80 words

Write a short review of a film you know well (or an invented film, for creative-writing purposes). Describe its genre, plot and main character, and give your opinion.

PLAN

1. Choose a title for your review, e.g. 'Film Review: [Film Title]'.
2. Note the genre and one sentence about the plot.
3. Describe the main character in one or two sentences.
4. Add your opinion: did you enjoy it? Would you recommend it?
5. Check your grammar and punctuation.
