Make predictions before you read.

1. Look at the title. What kind of information do you expect in a text about two friends?

2. Guess: what three adjectives might the writer use to describe her friends?

My Two Best Friends

- 1 I have two best friends, Elif and Kerem, and they are completely different from each other — but I love them both!
- 2 Elif is medium-height and slim, with straight, brunette hair and a few freckles on her nose. She is quiet in big groups, but she isn't shy with people she knows well. Elif is honest and reliable — if she promises something, she always keeps her word. She is also a little stubborn: once she decides something, it's very hard to change her mind!
- 3 Kerem, on the other hand, is tall with short, curly, blond hair. He's outgoing and talkative, and he's cheerful almost all the time. Kerem is generous too; he's always ready to share his notes or help a classmate with homework. He isn't patient enough to sit still for very long, though — he's always moving or talking!
- 4 Elif and Kerem aren't similar in appearance or personality, but they are both good, honest people, and that's why I'm lucky to have them as my best friends.
- 5 Next month, our class is doing a 'Guess the Person' project, and I'm going to describe one of them on a poster without saying their name. I think my classmates will guess correctly — Elif and Kerem are both easy to recognise once you know them!

1. What do you think happens at a 'club fair' at school?

2. Guess: which personality traits help someone choose a school club?

The School Club Fair

- 1 Every September, our school holds a Club Fair, where every club has a small table so new students can find out what to join. This year, I helped my classmates find the right club by thinking about their personalities.
- 2 My friend Aslı is very outgoing and talkative, and she's confident enough to speak in front of a big group, so I suggested the Debate Club. She's also generous with her time and always helps younger students, so the Debate Club's mentoring programme is perfect for her.
- 3 My other friend, Burak, is a bit shy and quiet, but he's honest and extremely reliable — he never forgets a deadline. He isn't outgoing enough for the Drama Club, but he's a brilliant, patient artist, so the Art Club was an easy choice for him.
- 4 Then there's Zeynep, who is cheerful but sometimes a little moody before lunch! She's too creative and too energetic to sit still for long, so I recommended the Dance Club, where she can move around and express herself.
- 5 By the end of the fair, all three of my friends had signed up for a club that really suited their character. I think that's the secret: a club isn't just about a hobby — it's about finding people with a personality that matches your own.
